GREAT OCEAN STORM RUSHING TOWARDS COAST Business Men Protest Hamilton Dismissal

Headed By Twigg, Delegation Asks For Explanation

Conservatives, Liberals and War Veterans Join In Calling Upon Government to State Reasons for Asking Resignation of Assistant Purchasing Agent; Toimie Promises to Review Action of Hon. W. C. Shelly.

Demand for an explanation of the forced resignation of Major A. V. Hamilton, trusted Government official, filling the position of Assistant Purchasing Agent since his return from overseas in 1918, was presented to Premier Toimie and Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, by a representative delegation of Victoria business men this morning. They secured an assurance from the Premier their representations would be considered and an answer given next week.

TWIGG LEADS OBJECTORS

H. Despard Twigg, one of the Victoria Conservative members of the Legislature, led the objectors into the Council Chambers, where they voiced their views on the subject, to the Premier and Mr. Shelly. The delegation consisted of Conservatives, Liberals and representatives of soldier organizations. Among them were noticed Alfred Carmichael, Thomas Walker, Harold Gray, E. D. Tomlin, Hebdon Gillespie, Lieut. Colonel Angus, J. S. Henderson, W. Maynard and A. Gore.

The big delegation thronged the corridor outside the Council Chamber awaiting the arrival of the Premier and the Finance Minister, who left their offices for the meeting room as soon as the delegation was organized. Newspaper men entering the chamber were requested to leave while the discussion was in progress.

ASKS EXPLANATION

Alfred Carmichael was the first spokesman for the objectors and his remarks consisted mainly of a demand

Man Who Organized Dental Corps Dies

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—John Alexander Armstrong, C.B.E., who organized the Canadian Army Dental Corps in 1915 and took it overseas, died here to-day. He was one of the best known surgeons-dentists in Canada.

Born sixty-five years ago, he was the son of Thomas Armstrong and Jane Beatty. He received his education at the Royal College of Surgeons and the University of Toronto. He was a captain in the old Fort York Duke of Cornwall's Own Regiment.

MRS. CHIANG, NEW MEMBER OF CHINESE MINISTRY COMMITTEE

London, Nov. 2.—Appointment of Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Chinese President, as a member of the committee of the legislative Yuan of the Chinese Government is viewed by the Shanghai correspondent of The London Daily Mail as a consequence of women's growing demand for sex equality. The appointment was announced at Nanking yesterday.

This demand, he said, had already

Telephone-Radio Speech Across Atlantic Success

Cardiff, Wales, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press Cable).—It was Canada Day at the British Empire Trade Exhibition here yesterday and a crowd estimated at 10,000 persons listened to an address by Hon. James Macleoin, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce. Mr. Macleoin spoke into a microphone in his office in Ottawa and every word was carried by an intricate hookup of wireless and land wires to the exhibition grounds. Loud speakers made the address clearly audible to the listeners, who cheered Canada to the echo when the Minister had concluded.

It was estimated the cost of transmitting the speech amounted to $175 a minute. It proved valuable as an experiment in transmission and as a result wireless officials believe more direct communication with Canada can be worked out. Experiments will be conducted to that end.

Mr. Macleoin's speech was relayed by telephone from Ottawa by way of New York to Rocky Point, L.I., the wire-

Cold Wave in U.S. Is Spreading South

Kansas City, Nov. 2.—Driven on by fresh blasts from the Arctic, a Rocky Mountain blizzard, with accompanying snow, rain and freezing temperatures, spread farther afield into the Middle West to-day, threatening the lower Mississippi Valley regions with snow and nearly all of Texas with cold weather.

Fair but cold weather in the Rocky Mountain states to-day held little promise of relief from the second storm of the season which had halted air mail planes, blocked highways, delayed trains and disrupted wire communication.

Dirigible Stowaway Capitalizes His Feat

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Nov. 2.—Clarence Terhune, adventurous youth who came from the United States to Germany aboard the dirigible Graf Zeppelin as a stowaway, has begun to manifest a keen business sense. Of primary interest to newspapermen is the fact that he has become very calculating and refuses to say anything or answer questions put to him without payment. Two large United States syndicates are reported to have started bidding for the exploitation of this unique youngster.

Beside the offers to write whatever he may regarding the trip, he has had many other opportunities for lucrative employment presented to him.

NEWFOUNDLAND PLANS CHANGE

Sir Wm. Coaker, Premier-elect's Assistant, Tells of Drift Toward U.S.

Halifax, Nov. 2.—The sweeping victory won by the party of Sir Richard Squires in the Newfoundland general election last Monday, draws attention to an interview with Sir William Coaker, his chief lieutenant, published in The Halifax Herald July 1, 1927, in which the fall of the Alderdyce Government was predicted.

The disposal of the timber and mineral wealth of Labrador was intimated and the possibility of Newfoundland joining up with the United States was discussed.

BIG MAJORITY FORESEEN
Sir William at that time was credited with saying:
"There is no doubt of a big Liberal sweep next election which will give the Liberal Union Party seventy-five of the seats."

The incoming Government probably will dispose of Labrador and its mineral wealth. United States interests are active and a figure of $100,000,000 is mentioned as reasonable to expect Newfoundland will receive.

"It is a mighty good thing for Newfoundland that the Quebec Government turned down Premier Monro's $15,000,000 offer for Labrador, made in 1925. The Quebec Government was asleep and apparently still dozing and when it awakes it will find the whole of Labrador, with its vast timber and mineral wealth, controlled by United States syndicates."

No Cash in Vault After Cashier Goes

Groveland, Fla., Nov. 2.—Seventy-two hours of uncertainty ended here yesterday when the time lock on the money vault of the Bank of Groveland, set by the cashier before he disappeared last Monday, opened on the appointed hour, but revealed no funds in the safe.

With an undetermined amount declared missing since J. M. Hightower, the cashier, disappeared four days ago, bank officials awaited the opening of the time lock to ascertain whether any cash had been left in the vault.

"We found some notes, but no letters of any kind bearing on the case and no cash," said George C. White, state bank examiner.

GAINS PLEASE LABOR LEADERS

Municipal Election Victories in Britain Said to Fore-shadow Commons Triumph

London, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press Cable).—There was joy in the ranks of the Laborites to-day over the result of the municipal elections throughout England and Wales yesterday which they acclaim as a portent of next year's Parliamentary general election. Outside of London, where the returns were delayed, Labor gained 126 seats against a loss of nineteen. The Conservatives suffered a net loss of sixty-one, the Liberals a net loss of fifteen, and Independents a net loss of thirty-one, these furnishing Labor's 107 net gains.

"It is a very certain indication of how the tide is flowing," asserted Premier Ramsay MacDonald, parliamentary Labor leader. "It shows the country is turning more and more to Labor."

Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, former Labor Chancellor of the Exchequer, said he could not recall such a remarkable series of Labor victories before. They showed Labor was making extraordinary headway in the industrial centers.

SIGNIFICANCE DECLARED PLAIN
Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes remarked there was no mistaking the significance of the results, following on Labor parliamentary elections.

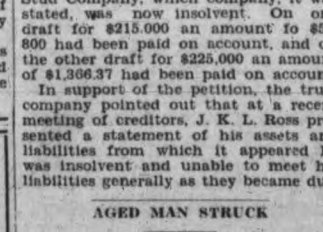

ADJOURNMENT IN NORTHCOTT CASE

Vancouver, Nov. 2.—The extradition hearing in the county court here today of Gordon Stewart Northcott was adjourned by Judge H. S. Cayley until Monday at 10:30 a.m.

Although Hon. R. L. Mattland, K.C., who is prosecuting four murder charges against Northcott on behalf of California and Riverside County, California, was prepared to proceed, Frank Lyons, defence counsel, requested a postponement for the reason that he was engaged in a Supreme Court trial.

YOUNG WOMAN WHO BURNED HERSELF DIES

Miss Elfrieda Knaak, Who Told of "Spirit Love," Succumbs in Illinois

Talking With Brother Near End, She Spoke of Pact With Some One

Lake Bluffs, Ill., Nov. 2.—Elfrieda Knaak, thirty-year-old book agent and psychologist, died here early to-day, three days almost to the hour from the time she had submitted her arms, feet and head to self-torture in a furnace of the Lake Bluffs police station.

With her death, officers said, was locked the story of what actually happened during those hours before Tuesday dawn when Miss Knaak, after sitting alone all night in the police station, went into the basement, where she later was found near the furnace terribly burned.

Even should evidence develop pointing to some second person as having had a hand in the tragedy, officers said, the young woman's story that she alone had inflicted the burns as self-torture to prove her faith in a "spirit love" would almost certainly prove a bar to successful prosecution.

POLICE FIRE ON STRIKERS

Four Men Wounded During Wharf Disorder at Port Melbourne, Australia

Melbourne, Nov. 2.—Four persons were wounded to-day at Port Melbourne when police fired to a crowd of 2,000 trade unionists advancing to attack volunteer dock workers.

When the situation became threatening, police at first fired over the heads of the union men, who continued to advance, armed with stones.

After firing into the crowd, the police used their batons freely and cleared the piers.

A tug carrying volunteers to work was fired on near Williamstown.

Trade unionists made several attacks on volunteer workers yesterday in Melbourne.

LOS ANGELES INQUIRY WIDE

Grand Jury Reported Considering More Bribery Charges

Los Angeles, Nov. 2.—Skeletons of some of Los Angeles County's principal criminal trials of the last few years were rattled to-day as the grand jury announced continuation of bribery indictments against District Attorney Ass. Keyes and several others.

Grand jurors refused to say what the cases were that were being investigated by them in the continuation of the inquiry, which until now has centred for the most part in the Julian Petroleum Company fiasco.

Additional evidence, some relating to the charges already made in indictments, and other data relating to other cases were said to be ready for presentation before the grand jury to-day.

SEARCHING FOR THREE
Meanwhile, deputy sheriffs armed with warrants still sought—at least three of those named in the previous bribery indictments. These included Ben Getzoff, the tailor accused of making a $100,000 fortune as go-between in the Julian Petroleum affair; his son, Dave Getzoff, declared to have

TORAL TRIAL STARTS TO-DAY

1,000 Seek to Attend Hearing in Small Courtroom in Mexico

Mexico City, Nov. 2.—Radio apparatus was installed to-day in the courtroom for the broadcasting of the trial of Jose De Toral and Mother Concepcion in connection with the assassination of President-elect Alvaro Obregon last July. Toral is the assassin and the nun is accused of being an accomplice. The trial is unusual in that generally the assassins or persons high in politics are tried by military rather than civil courts.

MANY WISH TO ATTEND
A thousand persons asked to be admitted to to-day's proceedings in the courtroom at San Angel, not far from where the shooting was done. The courtroom seats 100, but fifty more can wedge their way in. Admission was by ticket only.

Thirty names were drawn from a list of takersmen. Nine jurors from these are to try the youthful cartoonist.

Above the judge's bench and facing the space set aside for the defendants, is a picture of the late Gen. Obregon.

STILL HOPES
"I am ready for anything," Toral said. Then he spoke of the possibility that his crime might be considered political and that death would not be his punishment and his eyes shone with hope.

Mother Concepcion asked the prosecuting attorney to do his utmost to have her sentenced to prison, because that would enable her to devote herself to spiritual work among the women convicts in the penitentiary. The maximum penalty in her case is twenty years. In Toral's case it is death.

Western Canada Produces Its Own "Trader Horn," Who Chronicles Frontier Romance

The Gold Coast had its "Trader Horn," whose "story of the earlier" has gone around the world.

Now Western Canada has come forward with its "Trader Moberly." "Trader Moberly" is as real and romantic a character as "Trader Horn." His story will start in The Victoria Daily Times to-morrow, and be continued for some weeks.

His story is that of frontier life in the Canadian West, seventy-five years ago, with the Indians and buffalo, their habits and customs, filling the same role as the negro tribes and the elephants did in the book of The Gold Coast chronicler.

"Trader Moberly," outside of book, romance, is Henry John Moberly of Duck Lake, Saskatchewan. He is known to all who have lived for a short or long time in that part of Saskatchewan.

Also in to-morrow night's paper, Robert Connell, the noted naturalist, writes one of his feature articles, this one dealing with how the earth has stored up energy during the ages.

A special page deals with the importance and growth of the motor ferry services between this island and the Mainland, which have been carrying to this city more than 18,000 cars and their passengers every season.

In Saturday night's paper there will also be special children's, women's and cable pages, short story features, and the colored four-page comic section.

Breakfast—Orange juice, cereal, cream, baked French toast, brown sugar syrup, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Cream of onion soup, croquettes, tomato and cabbage salad, rice pudding, grape juice.
Dinner—Smothered chicken, twice

The following method of cooking chicken is quite novel and decidedly worth while when one chicken must serve many. The tomato sauce with mushrooms may be omitted but really adds much to the savoriness of the dish. The chicken can be disjointed for serving before cooking if preferred.

"CANDIDA" IS WELL PLAYED

Bernard Shaw's Famous
Comedy Delights Patrons
at Royal Theatre

"Candida" was presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre last night by Maurice Colbourne and his excellent company, the play being accorded a hearty reception. Twelve hours of the life of a London person of the nineties is the period portrayed, and only George Bernard Shaw could crowd into so brief a period so much material of such contrasting nature.

Ballot Holloway skilfully carried the leading role of Rev. James Morell. Candida, his wife, is delightfully portrayed by Harolaine Humphreys and Maurice Colbourne successfully presented the eighteen-year-old poet, who causes all the trouble. Delightful flashes of wit illumine the lines of Morell and his wife, but the rounds of hearty laughter which marked the performance were due to the poet, the tylist, and the scoundrelly father of Candida, the former played by Constance Pelissier and the latter by Rube Pyott. The reaction of the sea to the sentimentalities of the poet, Eugene Marchbanks, created irresistibly funny situations.

QUARRELS SUPPLANT

QUIETNESS

Everyone except the overworked curate becomes subject to rums of being "mad as a March hare" during development of the play, which starts with a quiet paragon, a quiet paragon at work with his typist, a quiet poet dreaming sadly of love of Candida, the quiet wife of the Rev. James Morell.

Then the paragon opens his mouth and puts his foot in it. Joyful rallying of the sad-faced poet brings announcement of his passion for Candida. Hearty laughter by the reverend husband, secretly complimented, is followed by the proud assertion that everybody loves his wife. And then the poet throws at the satisfied spouse a shattering bomb. Dearest suspicions stir, and the garrulous poet is assailed and nigh choked to death. Candida enters from the kitchen, redolent of peeled onions and shoe blacking, unwittingly saves the distressed poet from further main-handling, and the pugnarious paragon goes back to his sermonizing.

SHOCKED AT SIMPLE SCENE

That evening the Rev. James deliberately throws his wife and the poet together while he goes off speech-making at a social meeting. The lady attires herself in red, the poet reads her to sleep, and an innocuous situation just develops to a point of visual interest when the suspicious husband returns.

That is the point where Candida takes the lead in the comedy. Paragon and poet alike receive information as to the childhood wherein their mother still sleep. The husband and the poet bid for the lady's affections, and the lady chooses the weaker, her wedded man.

And throughout the narrative flitter the sparks of bright comment on the life of 1894, sly digs at priest, reformer, home life, public opinion, education, and they do no like comment of color, laid on with a white-wash brush and a slapstick, come and go the antics of the hypocritical poet-operating father of Candida, and the tylist in love with her, a reverend employer, who drinks champagne as opportunity offers, being a beer teetotaler "because I don't like beer."

An excerpt from "Henry the Fifth" was presented as a curtain-raiser.

"Candida" will be repeated this evening.

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—Four persons, including the proprietor, were held up last night when two unmasked gunmen walked into a drugstore in the west end of Winnipeg. The robbers secured $90 from the cash register and $10 from the store proprietor, but dropped some of the silver in making their escape. They got away in an automobile, which police later learned had been stolen earlier in the evening.

The story told just the other day about the temperance lecturer, who said his occupation was "not all beer and skittles," is capped by a correspondent with an anecdote about an atheist orator in Hyde Park. He had been attacking the Bible and declaring that the Gospels were entirely fictitious, but when some statement of his on another point was challenged he replied instantly, "What I'm telling you is gospel truth."

Twa Ends To Island But Stumps No Sailor's Job

By SCOTTY O' CAPE SCOTT

Ye ken Maister Editor that the "Provincial News Column" and the "Letters frae the Editor" that are printed in your big dailies are vera interesting to us subscribers that are scattered all about the Province; to my mind ye city people seem to be taken up we journals, one much doon there in Vancouver and Victoria.

If ye look ore the map ye will see that Vancouver Island has twa ends to it, but I never see this north end mentioned in your journals; this is a great part o' the country, this end, sticking right out in to the Pacific, vera near the most westerly point o' this great continent, and maist ye it is no just "Island," there is a little town and settlements o' about a thousand souls, churches, manufacturing and what-not.

Ma friends ha been saying lately, "Scotty why do ye tell some news to the paper and ye write them ore this country, ye do a lot o' talking." I may be a bit o' the spell but mon this is a different job.

STUMPED MESSEL

I came here first to farm, but aye the crop already on the ground was ta much fra me. I managed to get a bit off the top but mon the stumps, I wa o' what-na mesel in the finish, but mind ye I do no say it canna be done, ye see I ha a hankering fra the sea and it's no a sailor's job. Ye ken, sometin think a sailor ha never learned to sweat properly.

Since getting back o' the sea in my fine little fishing launch—aye but the first day, above the narrows, there is about 300 miles o' shore line on this sound—and I see and hear about a there is going on.

Along the shore of this big harbor there are many settlements and places—ye ken Vancouver is no the only place that ha a harbor—there is Quatsino Village, Coal Harbor, Port Alice, Holberg and twa big canneries and pilchard plants. The troling fra the salmon ha been poor this year, a fine lot o' "springs" showed up the other day, above the narrows, and mon the seines were round in no time scooping them up, not a chance fra the troler. Us trolers ha got up a big patition to ask fra the seines to be kept below the "narrows," it may do a bit o' good.

If we canna fish we can read ye have a great paper o' the "Times." Ye will ha to put up with Maister Editor, my style o' telling the news but what I wa going to say: There is a bit o' time to catch up yet we the salmon pack o' these canneries ha been as been as poor the noo, but they canna grumble but I tell ye they are getting to be a bit o' the "springs" near the shore any mare, ye ha to gang away out to sea to get them.

AYE MON THE KILTS!

To get on we the news we will now leave a cannerie at the entrance to this big harbor and gang awa further up, ta better understand ye will ha to imagine me one o' these canny canners on the upper "Princess Mary" in-ma kilties—aye mon but its a long time since I had on the kilties—and ye will see me surrounded, we the ladies for ye ken the ladies ha always admire a pair o' braw legs, the dears ha the same feelings that we ha on the subject and its always a wonder ta me why this matter o' "showing o' the legs" is always connected with the women, but more anon.

About ten miles further up the Sound ye come, what is called Quatsino "village," that ha put the "village" on this last year; this place is the center o' the District and to the old time seers o' the place "Quatsino" meant the whole harbor, or Sound, but there is are many places springing up along the shore that they ha to distinguish fra the others on the Tourists Circulars.

As ye approach this "village" ye find it is a village at a but ye find a low laying piece o' country with houses scattered along the shore in spots and bunches fra about three miles with a government wharf in the centre where we tie up ta. A bit further along from the wharf, along a bonny piece o' road, aye but its mare bonny if ye ha ye see that—ye will come to the new oil station and Post Office and the Community Hall belonging ta the "Quatsino Social Club." I tell these Quatsino folk are a great people fra a good name; about every week some sort o' doings are on at this "Hall," mostly ending up in a dance. The ladies had some charity scheme on lately and had what they called a "show" work, ye had to bid up fra ye best girl to take her in to supper from a "shadow of what ye thought was her on the other side o' a screen." Some canny chiefs bid up as high as five dollars to find the shadow was no the substance they thought.

TWA STREETS

The next place ye stop at on this Quatsino shore is Port Alice; the great job here is to turn the forest—but no the stumps—into pulp, about a hundred tons a day they manage, but the gude people here are like the others ye ken, they are no making pulp a the time. Besides the big mill we its tall stack and stone buildings, there is what they call the "Townsite" and "Down the Trail"—the first place ha twa streets o' a nice lot o' houses and bonny gardens in front. "Down the Trail" is the first residential part when the mill was being constructed and these ama houses are still occupied, standing among the stumps a long the shore down past the mill; these are to be abandoned later but the company pants now ha made some wonderful bonny little places on their own account we flowers and flinix—ye ken this is company town, all owned by the company. Coming back up ta the "townsite"—which belongs ta the company the same—ye here find they ha done a lot o' new improvements this last few months. Two new churches, Anglican and Catholic, Hospital o' twelve beds, school house o' two rooms, and last and the grandest, The Commonwealth Hall. Mon this is a real grand affair we its stucco finish, three stories, reading rooms, library, stage, restaurant, and hard wood dancing floor, all the finish right up ta date. Ye can now see the people are no making pulp a the time. Aye mon but there is a lot more to this place I could tell ye but ye will think ma news ore long.

A ROAD AT LAST

Supposing ye are one o' they tourists that ha come up on the "West Coast" route and ye want to get back ta Vancouver vera quick, ye can now leave the steamer in Quatsino Sound—and travel over a new route on the way back. Ye get off at Coal Harbor, the terminus o' that Hardy Bay Trail—quarter o' million dollars to build ten mile a road ore a level bit o' country. This "trail" is now a road at last, after about 31 years o' so, and ye can now get on a car and catch one o' the east coast steamers fra Vancouver.

This Coal Harbor place will no doot be the main place o' Quatsino light on: all the people, mails and light freight in this but now coming they into the country fra its much quicker and shorter.

All about this Coal Harbor ha been logged off and the absence o' this ever-lasting green timber ge's the place a bit o' civilized look we its low country that can be a cultivated later on. The little town ha charge here is no a Scott but vera energetic just the same, we a nice big hotel, store and watnot, and government telegraph besides a most cheery wife and big family, and his big garden o' flowers is vera proud.

Mon ye can gang anything in this country if it was no fra the stumps. Ye ken Maister Editor we went libere in this but ye ha's election, the poody body we ha this noo will be able to do much fra us—Maister Tolmie says it will make no difference the guide mon perhaps it will na but here a Scott that has his doots it will be the first time. To this Scott's mind the thing ha started already. Soon after the election an official looking telegram came ta our road foreman, we the omnibus statement, "closing all public works." In this case the "public works" was one lone man cutting thistles along the road, and the "public works" ha now gone fishing, but ye will note the adjoining district, that ge Maister Tolmie a member, is still going on we its road work.

SCOTTY O' CAPE SCOTT.

NEW AID FOR WAR PENSIONERS

Vancouver, Nov. 2.—Captain Ian Mackenzie, M.P.P., left here last night for the southern interior on the first of a complete tour of the Province. Captain Mackenzie, as soldiers' advocate, has had to be dealt with in Vancouver by Hon. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Pensions, to visit all sections of the Province with a view to obtaining personal contact with pensioners and ascertaining their difficulties. Hitherto all matters brought to the attention of the soldiers' advocate have had to be dealt with in Vancouver, but the Minister desires to give all returned soldiers an opportunity to meet their representative personally. Meetings are being arranged in various centres through the instrumentality of the Canadian Legion.

Man is Drowned In Burrard Inlet

Vancouver, Nov. 2.—That Henry Laukkanen, a Finn fisherman aged fifty-five, was drowned Wednesday night in the North Arm of Burrard Inlet while trying to cut loose a fish net which had become entangled in the propeller of his gasboat, the Paivo, is the conclusion of Sergeant James Cunningham of the provincial police, who investigated the disappearance of the man. A sum of $331, with which Laukkanen intended to purchase fish for the Great Northern Cannery, West Vancouver, was found intact in a cash box in the man's cabin. The Paivo was found drifting half a mile south of Crocker Island.

DISMISSAL IS TRIAL'S RESULT

Vancouver, Nov. 2.—Declaring he could not accept the evidence of Sergeant John Robertson, Police Magistrate H. S. H. has today dismissed Ray Gilmore, alias Slim, who was retried on a charge of breaking and entering the home of E. G. McNabb, First Avenue West, Vancouver, on February 22 last.

Gilmore had previously been convicted of this charge before the same magistrate and sentenced to two years' imprisonment, but took an appeal, the Appeal Court ordering the magistrate to try the case again.

It was allegations made by Gilmore before and after his arrest to the effect that he had worked under police direction that led to the dismissal of Sergeant Robertson, who was later reinstated by the Vancouver Police Commission and is still in service.

EVIDENCE STUDIED

In dismissing the case today the magistrate said: "I have gone carefully over the evidence. Really what the Court of Appeal tells me to do is decide whether I believe Gilmore's story or whether I believe Robertson's story. Robertson contradicted himself on several occasions. He is straightly contradicted by a number of reliable police officers. Gilmore's story is strongly corroborated by several officers. I can say no more. I can not accept Robertson's story, so must dismiss the case."

Gilmore was defended by C. S. Arnold, City Prosecutor W. M. McKay, acted for the prosecution.

BUSINESS MEN PROTEST HAMILTON DISMISSAL

that reasons be given for the Finance Minister's action in calling for the resignation of Major Hamilton.

Lengthy explanations accompanied the dismissals of W. H. MacInnes as Official Administrator in Vancouver and that of J. P. Dougherty as Superintendent of Insurance for British Columbia. No explanation was given by the Government when the resignation of Major Hamilton was announced according to current reports neither his politics nor his integrity was questioned.

VETERANS AROUSED

Returned soldiers joining in the discussion, pointed out that Major Hamilton was appointed by the last Government under the plan of providing positions in the Government service for veterans on their return from overseas if posts which they were able to fill were available. Major Hamilton, they pointed out, had not been identified with politics. In fact, few in the delegation knew his political opinions. He was appointed in 1918 as a pensioner, and was well able to fill, having discharged the duties of purchasing agent to the satisfaction of big British Columbia companies before he entered the army, and during the course of a fine record in the war won his way to the rank of major, it was stated.

EXPRESS REVIEW OF CASE

Members of the delegation stated after the interview that they were assured by the Premier that the whole subject would be reviewed, the forced resignation reconsidered and an answer given to the same delegation within a week.

Premier Tolmie, after the meeting, said: "The delegation was told that the matter of Major Hamilton's resignation had been laid before me by Mr. Twigg in writing, and I did not know anything about it except what I had heard casually. It is, of course, a purely departmental matter and was so handled without my knowledge. Under these circumstances, I told the delegation that we would consider what Mr. Twigg had said to see if it were necessary to review the matter further in any way. An answer on this point will be given soon. The matter was not 'I also told the delegation that all concerned will be given a square deal, and so they will.'"

CLASHES FEATURE MEETING

The member for Victoria clashed with both Atkinson and Peden during the meeting, members of the delegation state, refusing to accept the statement of both that "there were good and sufficient reasons" for the discharge of Major Hamilton.

"We want to be sure that they were good and sufficient reasons, and that you are not trying to make a mountain out of a mole hill," Mr. Twigg is credited with saying in voicing the determination of the delegation to secure the reasons for the forced resignation. A difference of opinion on the words Mr. Twigg used in one instance brought a hot interchange between the Finance Minister and Mr. Twigg with the Finance Minister eventually accepting Mr. Twigg's interpretation and withdrawing his remarks.

CHARGE PATRONAGE

Charges were made that the forced resignation was solely for the purpose of creating a vacancy for a party worker, and that the whole storm brewed over an incident of a year ago, over which neither the assistant or the member of the delegation could be questioned.

"It was just a small error on a routine matter of business which any business man might make," said a member of the delegation.

Other members of the delegation are reported as emphasizing that the resignation of an efficient business man was called for to make room for a good party worker.

MORE THREATENED

Recent dismissals from the Government service and threats of further dismissals may follow have been the subject of much discussion at the Parliament Buildings recently, and throughout the Province. While there have been a few changes in the Public Works Department in positions that do not come under the Civil Service Act, views recently expressed by Hon.

Nels Loughheed on the subject indicate that he plans further changes. "How are coming from office holders under the late Liberal Government who have been dismissed, but in every case have been reappointed. The action has been taken there has been just cause for it," Mr. Loughheed claims. In the work of reorganizing his department, he stated he had yet to find other than good Liberals who were occupying the best berths.

Those to go are those whose weight eventually bore down the Liberal Government," he stated. "Men were found to be getting pay from the government who were active politically, and we have found it expedient to get rid of them. We are not going to be stingy, but we demand efficiency, which means a lot to the people and will eventually mean better and longer roads."

The Vancouver Province, which supported the Conservatives in the last election, deals with the subject editorially in a manner which might be construed as a warning to the Government to move carefully in the matter of dismissals and appointments. It says:

"The recent doings of our new Government at Victoria in the matter of appointments to be made and appointments to be unmade, constitute a perfect object lesson in the value of political style."

"It seems, then, if you are a new government in office, that your strength will be as the strength of your heart if only your heart is pure. Thus, there is a new purchasing agent to be appointed. 'Nothing,' says Premier Tolmie, 'considering the problem of whom it shall be, shall be done without a specific cause.' And the new purchasing agent is appointed forthwith. But perhaps it is not difficult to keep your heart pure when it comes to the making of appointments. It is the unmaking of appointments which so often provokes cause for ungenerous suggestions and nasty remarks among the unregenerate opposition."

Sudden dismissal of Major Hamilton, who as assistant purchasing agent for the Province, filled one of the most onerous of the executive offices in the whole civil service, came as a great surprise to members of the civil service here.

It was expected generally in the service on the death of James Paterson, purchasing agent, that Major Hamilton would be promoted to succeed his chief. This expectation resulted from pre-election speeches of Premier Tolmie and other candidates of the present Government, in which they said that politics would be kept out of the civil service and indicated that the promotion system would work to the benefit of faithful employees. In view of this pre-election attitude, there was much discussion in the service, when Major Hamilton was passed over and a party political worker was brought from Vancouver to take over the office which controls all Government patronage in purchases.

PRICES IN QUESTION

One report had it that the immediate cause of the dismissal of Major Hamilton, came as a result of his refusal to place an order at a higher price for supplies for one of the Government of British Columbia's local party workers, than the price obtainable elsewhere. The goods were bought from a Vancouver house, it was reported, whereas the local party worker was charged the Vancouver price plus a trade profit. The disappointed party worker complained to a Cabinet Minister of the lack of "consideration" he had received at the hands of the purchasing department and then it was rumored the official axe was sharpened for Major Hamilton. It was also charged that he failed to show due respect to the Minister when he was brought before him. As he is active in the returned soldier movement in this city, veterans have vied with the members of the civil service in their display of interest in the Hamilton case. No complaints have ever been reported regarding Major Hamilton's administration of his office.

MUCH SHIPPING AFFECTED

With a particularly lengthy list of grain carrier and liner arrivals, scheduled for this week-end and early next week, the storm may seriously affect the business of Victoria and Vancouver. Among the vessels bound for British Columbia ports and now in the path of the storm are the Chief Maquilia, Tairun, Yojin Maru, Homeside, Tokiwa Maru, Victoria, Arishima Maru, Moshu Maru, Yur Maru, England Maru, Pacific Reliance, Doo de Diamante, and Wearpool.

A dispatch from Portland stated that a ship at fifty-three degrees latitude north and 150 miles west had reported a barometer reading of 27.96 inches this morning, the lowest ever received at Portland. The vessel was reported due west of the north end of Vancouver Island and south of Seward, Alaska.

MOST TRAVELED RIDER

Since leaving Victoria early this summer for the Olympic trials at Toronto, Bill has established himself as the most traveled rider in Canada. He has hung up a most enviable record and stands out as one of the greatest athletes in the Dominion.

Although not as spectacular as that of Percy Williams, Vancouver's crack sprinter, who by his double victory at the Olympic games has won for himself the title of being the world's fastest man, Peden's performance has been most remarkable. Since leaving Victoria he has traveled all over Europe visiting France, Belgium, Poland, Germany, England and Scotland.

Both Peden and Lew Elder of Toronto were taken with cramps in the 103-mile Olympic race and, although they made a plucky showing, failed to place. On the day following the Olympic test, they accepted an invitation to ride at The Hague. Peden's luck in the races at the Holland capital was no better than he enjoyed at the Olympiad. He spilled and was so badly cut up that he was covered from head to foot with bandages.

GOES TO WARSAW

At the conclusion of The Hague meeting, Elder and the Victoria boy were invited to Warsaw, all expenses paid. They had three days of riding at the Polish metropolis and cleaned up in almost every race they entered. On the first day the Canadians, teamed up and trounced the Polish Olympic team in a pursuit event. On the second day Peden won a five-kilometre lap race, and then riding on a team composed of Elder, himself, a Pole and a Dutchman, he triumphed again in a team race with the Polish Olympic riders.

Peden won another five-kilometre lap race on the third day. Elder being second.

CAUSES SENSATION

The Victoria giant caused a sensation with his riding on this occasion, lapping the entire field. He says he was treated like a prince at Warsaw, staying at a first-class hotel and receiving the best possible attention. An average of 7,000 persons a night attended the races, which were on a 400-metre cement saucer.

Peden described the track as second only to the fine Paris saucer. Dr. William Morton, who accompanied the Canadian cyclists to the Olympic games as coach, made the trip to Warsaw with Elder and Peden.

PROCEEDS TO LONDON

From Warsaw the Canadian athletes proceeded to London, where they participated in the meeting of champions tournament at Herne Hill. They were eliminated in a half-mile event, but won a pursuit contest from British representatives, Monty Southall and Percy Wyld. Peden was also second in points in a five-mile lap race. Elder was second in the final. At the same meet Elder and Peden rode tandem and paced Frank Southall in his record-breaking "hour" ride.

Elder left for home after the Herne Hill meeting, but Peden went on in search of further honors. On September 13 he participated in the North Road twelve-hour race, finishing eighth in a field of eighty-seven. His performance was considered exceptionally meritorious as to win eighth place he had to make 213 miles, the longest distance he had ever attempted to ride.

WINS SOUTHAUGE RACE

He won the Southauge twenty-five-mile race on September 21, riding from the scratch. He beat Monty Southall and the German sensation, Lauterwasser. One hundred riders took part in this event, in which Peden broke Frank Southall's record of 1 hour, 3 minutes and 39 seconds by eight seconds. Frank Southall is considered one of the world's leading cyclists.

SETS NEW RECORD

On September 29, Peden was in Glasgow. He won a mile handicap race and set a new Scottish road record for twenty-five miles in a special trial. His time was 1 hour, 4 minutes, 37 seconds, nearly a minute better than the old mark. Peden made twenty-five miles in an hour and two minutes in winning the coast championship on the Pacific Highway, but the hilly roads of Scotland presented a much more difficult course.

Three weeks ago Bill was in Paris. There was only one amateur race and he capped his triumphant tour by finishing first in this one, a team event. He was partnered by a Belgian rider in a thirty-kilometre team contest, similar to a six-day race. Fifteen teams took part.

UNDER FAVORABLE AUSPICES

DR. J. D. MACLEAN HAS ENTERED
Federal public life under very favorable auspices. The Government at Ottawa is firmly entrenched in office. Its policies have given general satisfaction, and all authorities agree that never were Canada's prospects brighter than they are now. If he should be elected to Parliament, Dr. MacLean would be able to make an important contribution to Victoria's development in many particulars.

There are 245 members of the House of Commons, of whom 89 constitute the Conservative opposition. The rest for the most part support the Government, which therefore will be in a position to carry out its policies for a considerable period. In any case, there can not be even any temporary interruption of its course for fifteen or eighteen months, when it probably will appeal to the electors.

As Dr. MacLean already has pointed out, he would go to Ottawa fully appreciative of the needs of this port, the expansion of our maritime business and the conversion of an excellent dock system into a hive of shipping activity. It will be noted from Premier King's telegram to Dr. MacLean, moreover, that the Dominion Government is looking forward to the entrance of British Columbia's former Premier into the House of Commons. In that message he said:

Your presence in the House of Commons would be of the greatest advantage to the Government in every way, but especially in relation to all matters pertaining to the interests of the Province of British Columbia. I cannot, therefore, express too sincerely my hope that in the general interest you may be returned as Federal member for Victoria.

It obviously would be in Victoria's interest to send Dr. MacLean to Ottawa to support a government whose policies have met with popular approval from one end of the country to the other. It is only necessary to note the monthly reports of the banks to realize how satisfactory conditions generally are in Canada. The Bank of Nova Scotia, for instance, finds that:

Manufacturing industries generally have shown great activity. Implement makers, in particular, have benefited largely by the recent developments in Western Canada; and industries subsidiary to building construction have done very well. The working force employed in the building trades has expanded rapidly within the last two months, and according to the most recent statement is about eleven per cent. greater than at this season last year.

The Bank of Montreal in its business summary of October 22 says:

That dependable index to trade conditions—building construction—continues to point upward. In September a larger amount of contracts was recorded than in the same month of any preceding year. In all the provinces a gain is registered, the total of contracts being placed at $45,439,000.

These are facts which should interest the people of Victoria. It is this condition which has been largely responsible for increasing bank clearings, greater home building activity, and better business in this community generally. Surely this city should desire a representative at Ottawa who would be able still further to promote the welfare of the community. Indeed, it would be good business for Victoria, if from this byelection Dr. MacLean went to Ottawa with the unanimous endorsement of the electors.

THE CASE OF MAJOR HAMILTON

NOT A FEW PEOPLE IN THIS CITY are asking why it was necessary for Major Hamilton to resign from his position in the office of the Purchasing Agent at the Parliament Buildings. The Times is informed by those who know him that he was a thoroughly efficient public servant, that there is no record of him as a party man, whereas the official who succeeded the late Mr. Paterson always has been prominently identified with the Conservative cause.

In view of Dr. Tolmie's public statements, that no civil servant would be dismissed without cause, it would appear that the case of Major Hamilton—in spite of the fact that he "resigned"—is one which calls for some explanation either from the Premier himself or from the Minister of the Department in which he was employed. Such a course might clear up some of the rumors already abroad.

LABOR'S CIVIC VICTORIES IN BRITAIN

CHANGING PARTY FORTUNES AT municipal elections in Great Britain only very rarely have any bearing upon the possible trend of events at parliamentary elections; but we may assume that the striking gains recorded by the Labor Party yesterday will cause the other two political parties to wonder if they represent a casting of shadows that presage victory for Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's forces next year.

The Liberal Party on this occasion did not take anything like as active a part as its two rival parties, consequently most of the gains made by the Labor Party have been at the expense of the Conservatives. Even Conservative Twickenham, "highly respectable" suburbia, fell a prey to the Laborites—a shock for Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, its member in the House of Commons.

It is to be noted that the few Communists who entered the lists for the most part were completely snowed under, another indication that the purging process which the Labor Party now has under way gradually is cutting the ground from under the feet of the extreme left wing, or red, elements.

LIFE'S LITTLE VANITIES

SEVERAL NEWSPAPERS IN THE United States have been noting what Mr. Frank Kent, journalist and author, says about people who pretend to hate to see their names in print. Mr. Kent declares it is all "complete pretension," and says "the only time they hate to see their names in print is when personal mention is accompanied by some form of adverse criticism."

There are other reasons, of course, why people do not like to see their names in print; but it is not necessary to mention them. An ordinary imagination should be able to recall a few. There is, however, a point about the publication of names which perhaps is not always understood by the general public. From a newspaper's point of view the record of any happening, no matter what it is, increases its appeal the more the personal touch—the publishing of names—is imparted to it.

Every newspaper office is familiar with the visitor who brings a little information with which his name must on no account be associated. Not infrequently he goes his way after leaving enough material for a couple of columns, and in some instances he has been known to discover—quite accidentally, of course—a photograph in his inside pocket. He wonders whether the paper might like to have it; anyhow, there it is if it should want to use it.

A TRIBUTE TO MR. MOUAT

TORONTO SATURDAY NIGHT PAYS a graceful tribute to Mr. A. N. Mouat, retiring Comptroller-General for British Columbia, and describes him as the man who made the public accounts of this province both lucid and educative. Our eastern contemporary also notes that Mr. Mouat's decision to take his well-earned rest has been followed by widespread expressions of regret throughout the Canadian West where he is so widely known and highly esteemed. Recalling the fact that he made a name for himself when he reorganized the finances and accounts of the City of Edmonton, Saturday Night proceeds:

It was perhaps because of this achievement that British Columbia when it decided in 1917 to appoint a Comptroller-General to take charge of its accounts, involving vast and scattered natural resources, sent for Mr. Mouat. His labors in that capacity have brought him international fame and were in 1923 proclaimed in The Municipal Journal of London as "A Lesson for England." His guiding principle was expressed in the following terms: "The form of the accounts should bring to light extravagance and inefficiency, and enable criticism to be usefully employed." This principle enunciated in his first report, early in 1918, has been consistently maintained, and the result has been that the citizen of British Columbia who wishes to ascertain just where any department of government stands has been able to do so with ease and can without difficulty obtain an education in the details and cost of administration.

During recent years, an era of new forms of taxation, the accountant has come to be a much more important factor in the life of Canada than was formerly the case. Mr. Mouat's achievement in later life takes on greater interest because of his identification, with the amazing changes that have taken place in the Canadian West since he came across the Atlantic as a raw lad from an Edinburgh accountant's office.

Mr. Mouat's ability for long, of course, has been liberally recognized by the general public of British Columbia. He proved himself a tower of strength to the late Government and well repaid the confidence which it always placed in him by giving more than ten years of highly efficient and faithful service. As already has been said, when he leaves the service of the province a vacancy will occur which it will not be easy to fill.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE PLEASURES OF PRISON

The Detroit Free Press

As long as American prisons provide their patrons with menus and entertainment programmes that honest people outside then can afford, American prisons will never lack inmates. Why reform and lead an honest life, when the worst that can happen to the recidivist is to be sent back to an institution where he has all the comforts of home and the sob sisters to smooth his pillow for him? They don't do it across the line; and that is one of the reasons why the disparity between the crime record of Canada and that of the United States reflects so little credit on this country.

PREJUDICE AND PRINCIPLE

The New York World

"The purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment," Mr. Hoover said at Ellensburg, Tenn., "is to protect the American home." Now, in all conscience, is that an honest statement of the prohibition issue in this campaign? Is Governor Smith trying to injure the American home? Is he as a husband and father one bit less interested than Mr. Hoover in protecting the American home? Why then this demagogic implication that those who support the Eighteenth Amendment are protecting the home and that those who wish to modify it are attempting to withdraw protection from the American home? The reason is that Mr. Hoover's chance of breaking up the Solid South depends upon just such dark invincible prejudices as that implied in this outrageous misrepresentation of the prohibition question. Mr. Hoover's whole prospect in the South is based upon the fact that there are a large number of sincere but greatly misinformed men and women who may be persuaded that their homes, their altars and their racial integrity are threatened by Governor Smith.

A THOUGHT

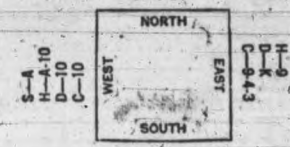

Rid me and deliver me from the haill of strange children, whose mouth speaketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsehood.—Psalms xlvii, 11.

Start a lie and a truth together, like hares and hounds, the lie will run fast and smooth, and no man will ever turn it aside; but at the truth most hands will fling a stone, and so hinder it for sport's sake, if they can. Ouida.

Diamonds are trumps and South has the lead. North and South must win all five tricks against a perfect defense.

Look over the cards on a table as shown in the diagram. Study out each hand and figure out how you would solve this problem. Then look at the solution and see if you have done it right. There is only one way in which North and South can get all five tricks. Can you find it?

Solution to-morrow.

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

This is a problem where it is plainly not advisable to lead trumps.

South leads the ace of clubs, and then his small heart, which North trumps. South's high king of trumps will then win the last trick.

It is interesting to note, despite the apparent simplicity of this problem, that if South had led his heart at the first trick, with North trumping it, West would have discarded his queen of clubs. Then North's return lead would have been trumped by West, defeating the problem.

Two-minute Silence On Armistice Day

Ottawa, Nov. 2—The following statement was issued yesterday by the Prime Minister:

"In accordance with arrangements for the observance of Armistice Day, sanctioned by His Majesty the King, the people of Canada are invited to mark the occasion by a two-minute silence at 11 o'clock on Sunday, November 11. It is suggested that wherever possible church services should begin at such a hour as may be convenient in order to insure that there shall be a pause in the service at 11 a.m. for observance of the period of silence."

The Committee Meets to Decide Mother's Fate

"WE would be glad, of course, to have mother come and live with us," says one of the sons. "But the trouble is our house is so small."

"We haven't a spare room," adds the daughter-in-law regretfully.

And so it goes. One after the other makes excuse. Each has his or her own problems, and responsibilities.

Widowed at 65, Mother's fate would have been vastly different had father left any estate, or adequate life insurance. Mother could have had a nice little monthly income of her own if father had planned right—an income guaranteed by the Mutual Life of Canada, and payable as long as she lived.

This Mutual Monthly Income policy is one every man with family responsibilities should seriously consider. Any Mutual Agent will be glad to tell you the advantages of this policy. Let us send you our folder "The Greatest Thing in the World of Insurance."

JAPANESE CHILD INJURED BY HORSE

(Special to The Times)

Cumberland, Nov. 2.—Sheikima Maruba, twelve-year-old daughter of a Japanese farmer residing on the Royton Road, was seriously injured when kicked by a horse. The child was attempting to drive the horse out of a neighbor's garden, and struck it with a switch when it lashed out and kicked her above the left eye. The eye was badly lacerated.

Mr. Archie Miller received a painful but not serious injury when his foot was crushed recently with a fall of rock at No. 5 mine here. A huge slab of rock fell from the roof across the car which he was pushing, making a little lean-to, which protected him from what would have been serious injury or death.

Life of Trader Moberly Starting In Times To-morrow Is Thrilling Epic of the West

Amid salutes from discharging guns and the cheers of a little group assembled on a fair-spring morning in 1854, on the waterfront of the St. Mary's River, to bid a respectful adieu to a distinguished visitor, a big bark canoe, responding to the concerted dip of flashing blades in the hands of its Iroquois crew, leaped from the landing before the Hudson's Bay Company's trading post of Sault Ste. Marie and, pointing its bow into the west, started across the wide sweep of Lake Superior on the second leg of its 2,000-mile journey from Montreal to the foot of Lake Winnipeg.

The canoe carried another passenger, a youth of eighteen, who had welcomed with ecstatic thrills the opportunity, in the service of the old company, to exchange for the dull round of existence in a small Ontario village, a free life of adventure in the wilds of the glorious West.

Autumn had come by the time Henry John Moberly reached his destination at Fort Edmonton. Rocky Mountain House, then the most dangerous establishment of the company on the North Saskatchewan, was without a master, and the youth, with less than six months behind him of "schooling" in his strange duties, was appointed to fill the post. He filled it. Perhaps his superiors wished to test the mettle of the lad. If so, the experiment did not disappoint them. To cope successfully with the warlike Blackfoot on their own ground, uphold the prestige of the Great Company and at the same time maintain authority over a score of subordinates, quick to detect any sign of weakness in the master, was an order to task the resourcefulness even of a grown, experienced man, yet young Moberly measured up to the responsibilities.

From that winter of 1854 onward, until in 1894 he left "the service," the life of Henry John Moberly was a busy and eventful one. He opened the "Jasper Trail" from Port Edmonton to Jasper House, saw the Cariboo in the days of the gold rush, acted as officer in charge at Fort Fraser in upper British Columbia, and after an experience as a trader on his own account, seeking fresh adventure he passed over from Fort George to the head waters of the Peace River and followed that majestic stream from its course west of the Rockies to Hudson's Hope on their eastern slopes.

The years 1885 to 1888 found Mr. Moberly leading the life of a hunter and trapper with headquarters on the small lake south of Hudson's Hope, which now bears his name on the maps. When he moved again it was by canoe and down the turbulent stream connecting the lake with the Peace, known ever since as Moberly's River. The Indians had said the feat was impossible, but impossible is a word that must have been left out of Moberly's copy of Webster. He built the first house on the Peace between Fort Dunvegan and the Battle River and, incidentally, left on the map another permanent mark of his pioneering activities. He established and named Fort McMurray on the Athabasca. He was a mighty hunter. He knew intimately many of the noted chiefs and warriors among the Crees, Blackfeet and Assiniboines whose deeds of savage daring are recorded in his story. He saw the West change from a verdant ocean tenanted by enormous buffalo herds and the fierce tribes who followed and lived by them, to an empire of towns, cities, farmsteads, railroads, telephones, automobiles and wheat. He served the Great Company for forty years, retiring with the rank of factor, and at the age of ninety-two still lives, mentally alert and actively interested in the events of the new time, at his home a few miles south of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan.

In the preparation of his life story which will be published in The Times, starting to-morrow, Mr. Moberly has had a sympathetic collaborator in William Bessell Cameron, himself an author of repute, whose book, "The War Trail of Big Bear," published last year in London, has been one of the outstanding successes in recent Canadian literature.

Jolly Halloween games and contests were enjoyed and provided much merriment.

A ghost light contest, where a number of articles in paper bags were guessed at, was won by Mrs. Alex. Patterson. Miss Margaret Mitchell won second prize. The winner of the "dead man's bones" was Rev. Mr. Lees, and Mrs. Howe and Miss M. Mitchell secured first prize in the guessing game. Competition with Miss Violet McNally and Roy Heyer coming second. NURSING REPORT SHOWS ACTIVITY IN RURAL AREAS Colwood, Nov. 2.—The report presented by E. P. Ashe, president of the Esquimalt Rural Nursing Service at the recent annual meeting, summarized the year's work of the service.

Special mention was made of the Child Health Day, now held annually early in May. Grateful acknowledgment was made of the silver challenge cups donated by Mrs. Herbert Pender and Mr. Vander Byl.

Mr. Ashe's report told of the dental work arranged by the service, fifty children being taken into Victoria for dental treatment.

The establishment of a pre-school clinic has been the object of the council for some time, and it is with a great deal of satisfaction that it announces that Dr. D. Berman of Saanich will conduct the clinic to be held Friday afternoon, November 9, in the Women's Institute Hall, Langford.

The report made special mention of the Girls' Health Club, supervised by a nurse in charge, ably assisted by Mrs. J. McLeod. The council extended thanks to Dr. Irene Barstow Hudson for her helpful suggestions and advice.

The schools in the districts covered by the association, Colwood, Langford, Albert Head and Linton and Happy Valley, have been visited once in each month, with extra visits where necessary and monthly inspection of the children attending the schools made. The numbers of children inspected varied from 128 to 156, making an average of 142 each month.

A real tent was arranged and superintended at the district Fair held at Linton in September, the report said.

The report of the secretary-treasurer showed receipts, including a balance in hand at last annual meeting of $2,067.50, and expenses for the year of $1,826.32, leaving a balance in hand of $241.18.

Stevens as a golliver, taking a special prize. Mr. Teddy Slingsby as a lady, and Mr. T. Birch as a black and white pierrot were the winners of the gentlemen's prizes. MAKE YOUR FALSE TEETH FEEL NATURAL

MILTON DOES IT!

Probably you have heard that Milton really cleans false teeth in an almost miraculous fashion, without effort, and quite without damage—ask your dentist.

It does more. It makes the plate feel natural in your mouth—does away with that feeling of strange, awkward discomfort. Scores of people have written that for this blessing alone Milton is priceless to them.

Try it! It always does it! The two (the only two) ways of cleaning false teeth are described in the little book which comes with the bottle. Three sizes—35¢, 65¢ and $1—from your nearest dealer.

FRENCH HEELS AS BAD AS CHINESE BANDAGED FEET

So Thinks Dr. Bernice Chu of Peking When Interviewed in Toronto

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 2.—French heels worn by western women to-day are almost on a par with the custom of bandaging feet adopted by Chinese women of a generation ago, according to Miss Bernice Chu, who has come from Peking to study public health nursing systems in the western hemisphere, and even a generation ago the Chinese women thought that American and European ladies inflicted great self-torture when they wore corsets. Interviewed locally Miss Chu said: "It is cruel and foolish to pierce the feet to put in heels for the sake of beauty, and it is just the same with these French heels. Only because of an instinctive idea of beauty they wear those heels which throw the body forward and gradually deform the pelvis. Chinese women do not wear such heels, and they do not use as many things on their face. College girls in China do not use powder and rouge to keep their faces pretty, only those with nothing else to do but live at home and keep beautiful use as many things as the American women do."

HAIR NOT BOBBED

Thoroughly modern in her professional knowledge, in her speech and study, Miss Chu retains many of the customs of her country. Beneath her tailored chinchilla coat she wears a native Chinese costume, with a long overblouse of silk with wide kimono sleeves and a skirt of figured black velvet. Her hair is not bobbed, but coiled tightly over her ears. She wears a bang or "liu hua," as the short hair over the forehead is called. When she returns to Peking Miss Chu will spend all her time directing training in health among the children in the school, for she believes that is the best way to teach a nation.

The young Chinese girl has come from the most western province of her country, Szechuan, near Tibet, where western civilization and culture has not made a strong foothold. From there she went to school in Peking, on a government scholarship. On graduation from the Peking Union Medical College, she was awarded a Rockefeller Fellowship to study public health nursing methods abroad. Miss Chu spent a year in England, at Bedford College, and then went on to the United States, where she nursed for two months in East Harlem, New York. Toronto is one point of study and then she proceeds to Chicago, and throughout the west before leaving again for China to take the directorship of public health nursing in Peking.

Miss Chu makes little comparison between the women of the countries, she has visited. Their habits are different, but their work is much the same. She is "very satisfied" with the manner in which the new government in China has carried on the public health work of the manufacture of serums and vaccines in Peking is the Temple of Heaven.

FAMOUS PICTURE GOES TO STATES

London, Nov. 2.—The Express says that Sir Joshua Reynolds' famous full length portrait of Lady Betty Compton has been sold to a picture dealer in the United States, who has resold it to an unnamed American collector. It is said Lord Chesham, former owner of the picture, was paid more than £100,000 for the picture, by far the highest price that any of Reynolds' works has commanded heretofore.

Between the women of the countries, she has visited. Their habits are different, but their work is much the same. She is "very satisfied" with the manner in which the new government in China has carried on the public health work of the manufacture of serums and vaccines in Peking is the Temple of Heaven.

ADMIRAL TO BE GUEST AT GUILD BIRTHDAY TEA

Sailors' Guild Plans For Visit of Admiral Druen From England Shortly

Arrangements for the annual birthday tea and lighthouse shower were made yesterday afternoon at the November meeting of the Victoria Ladies' Guild for Sailors, held in the Connaught's Seamen's Institute, Superior Street, with the president, Mrs. Alice Thomson, presiding.

Madame Claudet will be in charge of the musical programme, and the tea will be conveyed by Mrs. E. Vernon Thomson, assisted by Mrs. Snowden and Miss Schwartz. The date of the celebration to be Wednesday, November 28.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR
It was announced by the president that Admiral Druen and Mr. Barker, who are coming to Victoria to inspect the Victoria (Connaught) Seamen's Institute, will be the guests of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss MacKenzie during their stay here, and that a reception will be held for them at Government House. The time of the visit to the institute will be announced so that members of the guild may attend at that hour.

Mrs. W. R. Sayer read the report of secretary and also reported for hospital visiting, having called upon patients at the Jubilee Hospital during the past month, bringing gifts and cheer to five or six patients in St. Joseph's Hospital, weekly, and found them all progressing well.

WANT BIBLE READING
A resolution from the Local Council of Women, passed by the Allies Chapter, I.O.E., "That the Local Council of Women endeavor to have the Douai or Authorized version of the Bible read in the church without comment," was endorsed.

Mrs. Goodlake, wool convener, brought in several pairs of socks and four jerseys, and Miss Schwartz and Madame Claudet also contributed some knitted garments. Mrs. Goodlake asking to be relieved of her duties as convener was succeeded by Miss Schwartz, and the meeting warmly thanked Mrs. Goodlake for her valuable services at the head of the committee for so long a time.

Members were pleased to learn that during the past month 418 men and 32 apprentices have had the "Columbia" taught-institute and enjoyed its privileges; also that a supper had been given the Sea Cadets on Friday evening. Accounts passed upon were ordered paid, and the secretary, Mrs. Gordon Smith, showed a very satisfactory statement of finances.

Mrs. Smith moved, seconded by Mrs. E. Vernon Thomson, that the president, Mrs. Alice Thomson, be a member of the Navy League, representing the Ladies' Guild for Sailors. This was unanimously carried.

Further plans for the coming festivities were discussed during the serving of tea.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

A NUMBER OF PROBLEMS CONFRONT THIS MOTHER

Mrs. B. M. M. writes: "My baby girl is one year old and weighs twenty-four pounds. How soon can I start training her not to wet herself, and how shall I do this?"

"She sleeps from seven to seven without waking, and has a two-hour nap in the morning. Is she getting enough sleep?"

"When she had a nap in the afternoon she was slow to go to sleep and would jump up and down in her bed. How can I get her to sleep for about an hour. This same performance was repeated at bedtime and sometimes she did not get to sleep before nine o'clock. Since I omitted the afternoon nap she is perfectly willing to go and is asleep by seven."

"She will not eat eggs. At first she would eat them, though reluctantly, now after the first taste she refuses them. I omitted eggs for a while but she still refuses them. I have always disguised spinach and other foods she disliked, but how can I disguise them?"

"Do you think it wrong to allow a child who sleeps all night to lie in a wet diaper?"

ANSWER
Take the child, beginning now, to the toilet every fifteen or twenty minutes and put her on a small jar. She'll learn to wait until you do, and you can get the white sauce over vegetables or cooked in the soup. An egg is always an egg in whatever food company it finds itself.

Yes, I do think a child should be changed when you go to bed. Use plenty of diapers thick enough to prevent the child's night clothes from being soaked, and she need not be taken up, but changed right in bed without disturbing her.

The new booklet which Mrs. Eldred has prepared for her readers, entitled "Bad Habits," contains information on bed wetting, nail biting, thumb sucking, training in cleanly habits, dirt eating and refractory children. Any reader who desires this booklet may obtain it by enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope with her request, mailed to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

St. Mary's Sale—St. Mary's, Oak Bay, Junior Women's Auxiliary will hold its annual sale of work in St. Mary's Hall, Yale Street, to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. A short entertainment will be given before the sale commences.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

ENCOURAGING NAPS

One Mother says: I have found that when my little tot's tire of their naps, nap time can be made more interesting by setting the alarm clock and telling them not to talk until the alarm goes off. It takes only a few minutes for them to drop off to sleep and after they wake up I let them hear the alarm go. This plan has sometimes to be alternated or exchanged for that of putting little gold stars after their names on a chart for taking their naps.

Labrador May Be Sold

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 2.—Sale of Labrador either to Canada or to a United States syndicate will, in the opinion of Sir William Coaker, leader of the Fishermen's Protective Union and an ally of Sir Richard Squires, be among the results of the Squires party's victory over the Alderdyce Government in Newfoundland general election.

In meeting a request by the Canadian Press for his opinion on the outcome of the election, Sir William sent the following reply from Port Union: "The results of the election of the Liberal Government will be, in my opinion, a vigorous fisheries policy, the sale of Labrador either to an American syndicate or Canada, a policy to encourage agriculture and road building, and the establishment of new industries."

Flery General—"Allow me to tell you that you're a puppy, sir!" Last of an Ancient House—"Don't you dare say that! Are you aware that I am of a long line of—" "Silence! When I want your pedigree I'll drop in at the Kennel Club and get it!"

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH—If the blindfold suddenly should slip from this horse's eyes, he doubtless would be very much surprised to find himself pushing a sulkey, wheelbarrow fashion, around the track at Newark, N.J. The race was staged for a novelty, but it also shows that you can put the cart before the horse and get away with it.

COCHRAN GETS TWO WINNERS

Horses of New York Sportsman Capture Feature Events at Maryland Opening

New York, Nov. 2.—Gifford A. Cochran, New York sportsman, had a perfect racing day yesterday as the centre of turf interest completed its move from New York to Maryland. Opening the Pimlico Fall meeting, Cochran's chestnut son of Man o' War and Fairy Wand, Genie, galloped to an easy victory in the $25,000 added Riggs handicap. In the gateway feature, another Cochran colt, Xylophone, turned in a victory, winning the $3,500 added Ardeley handicap.

Genie was the best by four lengths in the Riggs, with A. C. Schwartz's Sortie in second place. The Audley farm's Princess Tina finished eight lengths farther back to take third. The value to the winner was $22,775, and a gold cup. He covered the distance in 2:31 4-5, and paid $7.70 for a $2 mutual ticket.

FAIRMOUNT IS WINNER

The Monks' steeplechase, worth $2,000, which opened the Pimlico meeting, went to Fairmount. With Coronal second and Rip third, Huff finished in the show position but was disqualified.

Cochran's two-year-old Xylophone likewise won easily in the farewell feature at Empire, leading Annapolis, an 8 to 5 favorite, by two lengths. John B. closed fast to take third. The winner, held at 11 to 5 in the betting, covered the mile and seventy yards in 1:45 3-5.

A few wise or lucky bettors were well rewarded in the fifth race at Empire, when By Way won at 80 to 1. The odds were the longest of the meeting. He was held at 30 to 1 to place and 12 to 1 to show.

The feature race at Latonia, the Viasia handicap for two-year-olds, at a mile, brought a win to the colors of F. Cebrian, when his Naishapur closed fast in the stretch to win by three lengths. Ben Machree was second and Oul Monsieur third.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, November 2, 1903

There exists one vacant portfolio now owing to the resignation of Hon. A. S. Gooders having been accepted. The defeated member for Rossland has vacated the position of Provincial Secretary and has left the city.

The barquentine Katie Flunkinger was found drifting around the Straits on Sunday by the tug Coleman. It appears she became waterlogged and had anchored off West Bay in deep water.

E. B. Eddy, the paper king of Canada, and head of the first paper mill at Hull, whose wares are used the world over, is at the Driad Hotel.

Victoria and Vicinity—Weather Forecast—Moderate winds, chiefly from the south and west, mostly cloudy, with showers and stationary and much lower temperature.

At five o'clock this morning the steamer Amur arrived from Skagway with a large number of passengers.

Is Chinatown on the verge of a highbinder war? This is a question in which the city police are concerning themselves. Those in touch with affairs in the Asiatic quarter assert that trouble has been brewing between different factions for some time, and that the incident on Saturday night is the spark that will explode the magazine.

This morning a meeting of the Ministerial Association was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Rev. J. H. Vickers was in the chair.

The Commercial Saloon on Douglas Street was sold on Saturday afternoon. The management of the Orpheum Theatre present a great attraction this week, with an exceptionally well arranged bill.

Rugby football has apparently become popular in Victoria. The grandstands at the Caledonia grounds were crowded with fans on Saturday afternoon, the occasion being the opening game of the season between the Victoria team and the United Services. The Victoria team won by 3-1.

Saturday's Seattle Post-Intelligencer says: "A modern passenger steamer for the run between Seattle and Victoria is to be constructed at once by the Puget Sound Navigation Company. The contract was let last week by President Peabody."

STROPPING IS ESSENTIAL TO THE PERFECT

SHAVE

the new Million Dollar Razor

is a nation-wide SENSATION

Absolutely proves that stropping is essential to a perfect shave

THE new Valet AutoStrop Razor was introduced last July. It created a sensation. Small wonder, since it proved a vital fundamental of successful shaving.

Its automatic self-stropping feature demonstrated that all barbers are right—have been for 2,000 years. Because they always strop their razors before they start a shave.

The reason for this is that after the first shave the cutting edge of the finest blade that can be made is a row of minute needle points until it is properly stropped. This smooths out and re-aligns these tiny jagged hooks.

Everywhere wise men are turning to the new Valet AutoStrop Razor because it is the only razor that sharpens itself and assures you of a super-keen smooth shaving blade.

What's more, 21 years of research and a million dollars have been spent in improving the new Valet AutoStrop Razor.

Not only the razor itself but the blades have been materially bettered. A new type guard enables you to use the full shaving edge of these keener blades. You insert or remove them instantly by pressing a button. Blades are locked in a firm, non-flexible grip that eliminates vibration and pull. No need to remove the blade to strop and clean it. Try the new Valet AutoStrop Razor.

Give it a fair test. You'll soon be fast friends with it.

You'll enjoy the most perfect and fastest shaves you ever knew. And you'll hold up your hand and say "Never Again!" to the use of an unstropped blade.

STANDARD EXCHANGE GETS NEW BUILDING

Toronto, Nov. 2.—N. C. Urquhart, president of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange, announced to the press last night that the old Bell Telephone Building on the south side of Temperance Street, east of Bay Street, had been purchased at a price of $265,000. He stated that $100,000 was to be spent in remodeling the top floor into a modern stock exchange, while the other two floors will be equipped and rented as office space. It is thought that it will require about six months to complete these operations.

LADY SPINKS EN ROUTE TO EGYPT

Daughter-in-law of Victoria
Resident to Rejoin Husband,
the Sirdar

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 2.—An interesting visitor in the city recently was Lady Spinks, wife of Sir Charlton Spinks, commander-in-chief of the military forces in Egypt. Following a brief visit with Mrs. Lalley and Mr.
Charles Lalley, 26 Whitney Avenue, she left to join her husband, the Sirdar, in Egypt.

Lady Spinks before her marriage was Miss Marguerite Coleman of this city.
It was during a boat trip to Canada that General Spinks met his future wife, the trip being made to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Spinks, who reside in Victoria, B.C. The romance on shipboard was quickly followed by a engagement.

Their marriage took place while General Spinks was on furlough in 1916, recuperating from a bad shakeup received when he was buried by the bursting of a shell in Gallipoli.

They have a small daughter, twelve years of age, and twin daughters of eight. General Spinks was a visitor in Victoria a few months ago.

A year ago last June, General Spinks was knighted and the former Miss Coleman of Toronto became Lady Spinks. The Sirdar has had a remarkable military career.

Oak Bay Bazaar.—A largely attended meeting of the Women's Association of Oak Bay United Church was held last night at the home of Mrs. F. H.
Wright, Gladstone Avenue. Final plans were made for the tea and shower for the bazaar to be held at the Manse, November 6.

less station there it was sent to the station at Cupar, Fifeshire, Scotland.
That station passed the speech over land wires to the General Post Office in London, where it was amplified for the last stage of the journey, which was completed when loud speakers carried the Minister's words to the exhibition crowd.

GAP FILLED

"At one stage, when wires failed temporarily, a gramophone record of the incoming speech was made while a special line was run from the Cardiff broadcasting station to the exhibition hall.

It was hoped the cheers of the crowd had been heard in Canada, efforts having been made to transmit the sound back across the route used to transmit
Mr. Macdonald's address.

WILL EXTEND EXPERIMENTS

Immediately after the conclusion of the speech, wireless officials at Cardiff got into communication with Canada over a more direct line, and it was stated that as a result of the success attending the effort to transmit a speech clearly over the vast distance between Ottawa and Cardiff, further experiments would be made to improve the service.

RELATIONS WITH CANADA

The interview continued as follows:
Sir William, when asked about the probability of Newfoundland joining up with Canada, said: "Newfoundland has not forgotten Canada's action regarding the Bond-Blaine Treaty of thirty years ago, when Canada stepped in and protested to the British Government against confirmation of the treaty, negotiated by Sir Richard Bond and Secretary of State Blaine.

"Newfoundland is in no humor to consider confederation with Canada. She can not see where benefits to her would accrue.

"During the past fifteen years a large number of our workmen and fishermen have gone to the United

ASKED TO TELL EVERYTHING

Miss Knaak died a few hours after her former psychologist teacher and adviser, Charles Hitchcock, had gone on crutches to her bedside and pleaded with her to "tell everything."

Hitchcock had been laid up for a week with a broken ankle, an accident of which Miss Knaak apparently did not know when she went to the police station Monday night. It was a police theory that she had intended to meet Hitchcock, who is also night watchman of Lake Bluff, at the station.

"Hello, Fritz," Hitchcock said to the dying girl.

MADE NO REPLY

Miss Knaak looked him full in the face, but did not speak.

He asked her several questions, the authorities said.

"Why did you do this terrible thing," he asked. "Who let you into the police station? Why didn't you telephone me?"

The girl made no reply. As Hitchcock hobbled from the room he called back: "Goodbye."

"Goodbye," said the girl.

Those were the last words she spoke.

TOLD OF FACT

Miss Knaak talked with her brother
Alvin last night as she lay in her hospital bed. She spoke of a pact with some one, whose name she did not disclose.

"We had a pact," she said, "but the other one did not go through with it.
I went through with it alone."

Later she added that she "didn't think the other girls would put it over on me."

Although authorities investigating the case, particularly the physicians, were beginning to accept the theory that Miss Knaak burned herself, Alvin and other relatives insisted she was the victim of an assassin. Alvin, after his talk with her last night, said he was certain some one was with her in the basement where she was found last Tuesday morning. Repeated examinations of her body, however, disclosed no signs of physical violence.

Dr. C. Johnston David issued a statement last night saying a small bone in Miss Knaak's upper left arm was slightly cracked, indicating she may have fallen. "But there is not a bruise on her body," the statement concluded.

States, seeking employment, and were very successful. Consequently, ten per cent of our population are continually going to and coming from the United States, and when returning generally take half a dozen cousins and nephews with them. This means our people are exceedingly interested in Uncle Sam's country and if a day comes in Newfoundland when the people must decide our destiny, apart from the present constitution, it will be to the United States they will look and not to Canada. Newfoundland will never revert to the status of a crown colony and, as she is free to choose her own course, is coming round to the idea of a state of the United States.

At present, if a referendum were taken on this subject, it would carry by seventy-five per cent of the whole electoral vote, not because she has forgotten the old flag, but because the tendency of the times is to consider dollars and cents first.

"Newfoundland would never stand by and see the Old Country trampled on, but when the question to be decided means no injury to the old flag, and more dollars and cents for her people, it is likely the latter feeling will prevail.

"The true destiny of Newfoundland, with her fisheries, her forests and mineral wealth, lies in the direction of the United States.

DISAPPOINTMENT VOICED

"The country at present is deeply depressed and sadly disappointed over the economic situation. A wealthy United States corporation is stepping into the gap to control the forest wealth and another is developing the mineral wealth at Red Indian Lake and seeking to control other valuable mineral properties owned by the Reid Newfoundland Company, and unless Canada wakes up quickly the Labrador timbers and mineral wealth will pass to American syndicates which will not hesitate to pay $100,000,000 for Quebec refused to take for $15,000,000 only a short time ago.

"I can say an American syndicate already has mentioned to me a very large figure as a purchase price for large tracts of land, with the understanding that the offer to Quebec would mean the transfer of the sovereignty of the area, while the more recent American proposals do not affect the sovereignty of the territory.

BIG INVESTMENTS

"Under these circumstances Newfoundland will confirm the paper millions agreement with the International Paper Company, whereby this corporation will invest $40,000,000 addition in Newfoundland industries.

"The American Smelters Corporation proposes to develop some of the vast mineral resources of the island, and it is certain Newfoundland will not hesitate to enter into agreements with those United States companies which are willing to invest some of the spare millions rusting in the vaults of American banks."

NO MANIFESTO

Sir Richard Squires did not issue a manifesto in the course of the recent election campaign and his speech transferred to a phonograph record and reproduced throughout the island made no mention of the disposal of Labrador or of change in the constitution of the country. Therefore the interview of Sir William Saker can not be construed as an official state-ment of policy by the incoming Gov-ernment.

Sir William Coaker is leader of the Newfoundland Fishermen's Protective Union. He was chief ally of Sir Rich-ard Squires in the election campaign.</

U.S. TOO EAGER TO MAKE MONEY, EUROPE THINKS

Old Countries Admire Prosperity, But Distrust Materialism, Says Lecturer

Illustrating his points with ideas presented by various economists and observers from Germany, France and England, who had made a recent study of conditions existing in the United States, H. F. Angus, B.C.L., M.A., delivered an excellent address on "Foreign Criticism of American Prosperity" before the University Extension Lecture Association at Victoria College last night.

In general, European critics admired the actual prosperity of America, Professor Angus stated, but were far from admiring the social and cultural condition which resulted from the rapid pursuit of material welfare which the United States followed.

CAUSE OF PROSPERITY

This prosperity, the lecturer said, was due to a multiplicity of causes and the comparative homogeneous character of its people, but continental writers who discussed these causes, in a majority of cases, approached the situation with preconceived ideas, and sought to justify their beliefs by illustrations in the conditions prevailing in the United States. Naturally, on account of the numerous causes, they were able to segregate the particular reason which they were seeking, and characterize it as the only cause. This had been done by the British trade delegation which had been detailed to study the causes of prosperity in the United States, he said. In general, the deputation's report inferred that if the laborers of Great Britain were paid higher wages prosperity would result. In a measure this was true. In a measure, however, it was not, but many other causes of prosperity were almost entirely neglected, he added.

GERMAN VIEWS

A German delegation, sent to study the causes of material welfare in the United States, reported that it considered the prosperity due to the great internal, as well as outside markets of that country. It also reported that much advertised efficiency and mechanical supremacy was in no way superior to that existing in Germany. This delegation also appreciated the strength of the United States, due to the homogenous nature of its people, for although several nations were represented in the country, they quickly became Americanized and adopted the American methods of living.

Moreover, the German body found a reason for prosperity in political monopoly of the great natural resources of the United States, he stated. But at the conclusion of the report, the men who had been making the survey questioned the wisdom of the United States' policy of disregarding cultural development by devoting their interests entirely to an intensive pursuit of wealth. Another German critic emphasized the futility of trying to compete with the United States in the production and marketing of standardized goods, and marketing of standardized goods. Professor Angus continued. The German pointed out several reasons why the United States had advantages over European industries in selling goods of one kind, and said that the sensible thing for the continental manufacturer to do was to make products of a higher quality and disseminate the design in order to cater to the wealthier buyer.

AFTER THE DOLLAR

Professor Angus dealt with the outlook of A. Siegfried, a French economist, who emphasized the lack of cultural development in the United States as a result of the too-avid pursuit of the dollar. This man also considered the policy which the United States was forced to follow to retain its foreign markets. While dealing with this he showed the relative positions of America and the continental countries. The former was a creditor which had to keep loaning money to its debtors in order to give them the wherewithal to purchase United States goods.

One point upon which Siegfried was very dubious related to the course which the American people would follow in the leisure which the increased prosperity would bring them. Professor Angus stated. Would the people spend their time in the development of art and culture, or would they become lazy and degenerate into vicious practices, Siegfried asked. M. J. Bonn, a German critic, reiterated this question. "This man was also of the opinion that Europeans in general admired the material prosperity of the United States, but heartily detested the lack of cultural development which attended that land's prosperity."

A. B. Sanders, president of the association, presided at the meeting and moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his interesting address.

HUGHES SPEAKS FOR HOOVER IN U.S. CAMPAIGN

New York, Nov. 2.—Charles Evans Hughes, speaking last night in Brooklyn, hailed Herbert Hoover as "the apostle of co-operation" and "an epitome of progress," and asserted that "Republican success in election day is the best insurance policy we can write."

Quoting liberally from Mr. Hoover's writings and public statements, and from the campaign speeches of Governor Smith, Democratic United States Presidential candidate, the former Secretary of State said this election "is a choice between two men."

"I have not disparaged the ability or achievements of Governor Smith," he said, "but as I prefer Hoover."

Condemning campaigners' attacks on Hoover's Americanism, he declared: "Any intelligent person who attempts to deny his Americanism deserves the scorn and contempt of all fair-minded persons. As a candidate for the chief magistracy of the nation he stands out conspicuously superior. His rejection would be a national calamity."

"The keynote of Mr. Hoover's programme is individual opportunity as opposed to unnecessary governmental control. His purpose, in his own words, is: 'To build in this nation a human society, not an economic system. We wish to increase the efficiency and productivity of our nation, but its final purpose is happier homes.'"

STOCK MARKET — FINANCIAL NEWS — GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)
(Whitney, Nov. 2.—Wheat, Both futures and cash wheat markets were extremely slow to-day with little or nothing of feature going on. Offerings were very light and prices were able to hold steady within a narrow range of about half a cent. There was a small export business in the low grades worked overnight, but the demand against these sales was quickly filled up after which the trade was small and local largely spreading between the different months, with a little commission house support on the dips.

The offerings in the cash market were light, and spreads on the lower grades were from 1/4 to 1/2 better. Supplies were large in all positions in this country, but the elevator companies are not pressing the low grades on the market and are looking for some betterment in spreads. The pool who were selling cash wheat yesterday, withdrew all offerings to-day.

Export business out of this market has been slow all day. There have been clearances from seaboard and the pool and the general opinion is that the pool is underselling the trade abroad. The foreigner is buying only for immediate requirements, being indifferent because of large supplies on this side. Private reports indicate that the Australian yield will not be as large as expected earlier in the season.

This month is the critical one if growth of the Argentine crop with present conditions favorable. There has been a disposition on the part of the trade to wait the speech on farm relief by Mr. Hoover to-night at St. Louis. Coarse grains—These markets continued very slow with a small trade passing. There is a little demand for barley, sufficient to absorb the light offerings and hold the market steady. Nothing doing in oats or rye, but the pressure is very light.

A Story of the Mystic East

The Riddle of Siwa

By DIXON KAYE

Author of "Dr. Burney's Greatest Case"

He conducted them up the time-worn steps which Seymour knew so well, and which were connected in his mind with such horrors. But he kept near to the Prince, ready to present him to Abdullah as the evidence of the success of his mission.

Presently they came into the great hall, where Abdullah stood ready to receive his brother Ahmed. There was no mistake about the love these two brothers had for each other. They embraced with the utmost affection. Then Abdullah turned to Seymour, grasping his hands and kissing him on both cheeks.

Although Seymour did not like the custom, he put up with it, as being a much more agreeable reception than that on a former occasion. But there was no headman there now; his reception was a triumph.

"You have done a great deed," said Abdullah, addressing Seymour, "much greater than many have thought it possible for you to achieve, but you have brought back our brother and you shall have your reward. Although your life was forfeited to us by your rash act, and we could do with you as we will, we make no claim upon it. You are free; your life is your own to do what you will with it. And, moreover, when you leave, a caravan loaded with gold, which you have won by your great courage and perseverance, shall accompany you."

Seymour heaved a sigh of relief. So this was the successful end of his great adventure!

Now his time was free to devote to the search for Eva.

"There is one thing I would ask of you before I go," he said to Abdullah. "A lady, whom I love very dearly, is believed to be in the Pyramid. She is to my wife. May I go to her?"

In reply, Abdullah indicated Osman. "Go with Osman," he said. "He will tell you all, and conduct you to your lady."

Seymour bowed low, and went to Osman, who, aware of him, together they left the Audience Chamber.

Osman led Seymour to the room in which they had formerly conversed. He passed a box of cigarettes to him and began to speak.

"When you left here," he began, "Miss Manders, your fiancée, was in the greatest danger, although, fortunately, you did not know it. A degraded Pacha, a man of vile character, but immense wealth, had conceived a passion for her; it was quite obvious that he intended to carry her off, and would do so at the first opportunity. It was an affair of the greatest gravity. What her fate would have been was too horrible to think of. While providing a body of men to watch over Miss Manders, and especially to guard the subterranean passages of the Citadel, through which we believed the abduction would be made, yet we could not render her absolutely safe. I consulted with the Sheikh Ibrahim, and with Abdullah. We determined that we would checkmate the vile Pacha, and abduct Miss Manders ourselves.

"Yourself?" exclaimed Seymour. "Yes," answered Abdullah, Ibrahim, and I.

"And where did you propose to carry her?" the Englishman asked. "But when I say 'here,'" continued Osman, "I do not mean this Pyramid. No doubt you have heard of a place we call 'towp'."

"Yes," he answered. "The Princess spoke of it on the way to England."

"Very well, then you will understand it came to our knowledge that the Pacha, of whom I have spoken, and who was enamored of Miss Manders, was making plans to carry her off himself. We at once communicated with Ibrahim, who caused to be watched immediately the subterranean passages from the Citadel. They were in time to frustrate the schemes of the abductor as Arabs had seized Miss Manders as she walked upon the old walls of the Citadel, gagged her, and carried her off into the subterranean ways. Here, how- ever, they were met by Ibrahim and his Arabs, who slew not only the Pacha's men, but the Pacha himself, whose body was carried off and buried in one of the tombs of the Mamelukes below the Citadel walls far too good a burial place for him. Miss Manders was then carried to the Treasure House by the Black Lake, known to a very few—practically only Abdullah, myself and Ibrahim. There the lady was carried the next day by motor car across the desert to the town which I will presently show you. We knew that she would be safe, until your return."

"But what," asked Seymour, "would have happened to her had I never returned?"

Osman shrugged his shoulders. "But you have returned," he answered. "Returned victorious. Had you not returned, Miss Manders would have been sent to her father. Neither Abdullah, Ibrahim, nor I, would have done her any harm."

"That I am sure you would not," added Seymour. "But when am I to see her?"

"Now," replied Osman. "As soon as we can reach the town."

"And is the town very far distant?" Seymour asked.

"Not far," responded Osman, smiling. "At any rate, you will not be long going there. Come with me. You will understand that we could not maintain this Pyramid and ourselves, and the large body of dependents it contains, without a great source of supply."

The tower provided all that and more. It keeps us in communication with the outer world."

"And how do you reach the town?" the Englishman asked.

"Come and see," was Osman's reply. He led the way down a sharp declivity which ended in a large well-lighted hall. On one side of this was a row of doors, which Seymour could not understand.

"What are these doors, he asked Osman, and where do they lead to?"

"They lead," replied Osman, with an amused look, "to Miss Manders. This is our railway-train to the town; it will start very soon. We had better take our seats; he asked his companion.

The best compartment was reserved for Osman and Seymour. Several men who were standing about the hall mounted into the other compartments. The doors were shut, their heavy flanges seemed hermetically to seal up the compartments of the train, which were brilliantly lit by electricity.

"Now we are off," announced Osman. "There was almost an imperceptible gliding motion, and that was all; and yet Seymour knew that they were traveling at a tremendous pace."

"What is the power which drives this train?" he asked his companion.

"It is simply," replied Osman, "a huge pneumatic tube."

Presently, without any previous warning, the doors opened and a flood of sunlight. The journey, according to Seymour's watch, had occupied exactly three minutes!

And now they alighted from the train and found themselves on an ordinary railway station such as exists in the country.

Seymour looked around; in the far distance was the Pyramid. He judged it to be twenty miles away.

"Surely that is the Pyramid?" he asked Osman.

"That is undoubtedly the Pyramid," responded Osman, much amused.

"About twenty miles away, I should judge," Seymour added.

"About that," was the reply. "And we have traveled that distance in three minutes!" the Englishman queried.

"Yes, my dear Burman, we were shot through that steel tube much as a bullet is propelled from a rifle. But there are wonderful safeguards as to slowing down. You can take it for a certainty that that form of pneumatic tube will be no rails only grooves."

Seymour changed the subject. "Eva," he suggested.

"It was arranged, stores, evidently intended for the Pyramid, to be packed in the next train."

The two friends passed through them to the station. The train found themselves in a very pretty town of a number of villas, dominated by what looked like a palace, which was the palace that they directed their steps.

"This is the casket which contains your jewel," Osman said. "And you see that we have taken every care of her, and saved her from a horrible fate."

They ascended to the first floor, and the Osman was met by a woman, a servant speaking in Arabic. She answered the question he put to her. "The English lady is ready to receive your highness," she said.

She held aside a pair of heavy curtains, and Osman pushed Seymour through them.

"You will have much to talk about," he said. "You will not want me."

Seymour entered a large room, the windows of which overlooked a beautiful garden.

But from a divan where she had been sitting, there arose before Seymour's eyes the woman he loved best in all the world, looking a little pale and anxious, but still his Eva!

CHAPTER XXIX

When the first rapture of their meeting had passed, they sat hand in hand upon the divan, and Eva told her lover of her experiences.

"Those wonderful people have been most kind to me," she began, "and apart from my anxiety about father, and about you, I have suffered nothing at all. True, the car, which was a fine Rolls-Royce, broke down once, crossing the desert, but that was unavoidable as it ran into a nullah. However, it was soon put right, and we continued our journey here."

"Did you come straight here?" Seymour asked.

"Straight here," was the answer. "Then you have not been to the Pyramid at all?"

The Tynmites began to groan because the rope that they had thrown missed Mister Whale by many feet. "Poor shot!" one Tynmy cried. "Let's pull it in and try once more. A lot of sport may be in store. Don't give up now. There's nothing gained if nothing's ever tried."

"That's right," said Scouty, "there is hope if we pull in our lengthy rope. Let's try and have it pulled aboard while I am counting five. The rope came dragging over the side of their big boat. Then Clowny cried, 'Say, if at first we don't succeed, we'll try again.'"

The rope now coiled upon the floor and then they threw it out once more. The captain then came out and said, "What are you up to now? We Coppy answered, turning pale. 'Why, we are trying to catch that whale. Please let us see if we can't do that clever trick somehow.'"

Uncle Wiggily And

Bunt's Slide

(By Howard R. Garis)

Baby Bunt was caught fast up inside the chimney of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. Yes, the poor, little orphan rabbit girl could not get down.

Some of you know how Bunt got up the chimney. Some of you do not. To those who do not I would say that Bunt and her mother, Mrs. Bunt, boost up the chimney so she could see it was all right for Santa Claus to climb down when Christmas came. Apart from any anxiety about father, and about you, I have suffered nothing at all. True, the car, which was a fine Rolls-Royce, broke down once, crossing the desert, but that was unavoidable as it ran into a nullah. However, it was soon put right, and we continued our journey here."

"Did you come straight here?" Seymour asked.

"Straight here," was the answer. "Then you have not been to the Pyramid at all?"

sneezed and she awoke, but she was so caught and wedged in the chimney that she could not come down.

"Can't you do something to help me get out of here, Uncle Wig?" asked poor Bunt up the chimney. Her voice sounded muffled as though she had her head inside a barrel.

"Oh, I'll get you out all right," said the rabbit gentleman. "Take a long breath now and make yourself as slim and slender as you can."

Bunt did this and Uncle Wiggily, stooping down on the hearth, from which he had scattered the little fire, reached up his paw, hoping to get hold of Bunt's feet and pull her down.

But she was too far up inside the chimney for him to do this, though he stretched all his body. Then Uncle Wiggily tried to think of another way to get Bunt out of the chimney.

"Wiggle as hard as you can, Bunt," he called to her. "And maybe you will slide down."

So Bunt wiggled but she did not slide down. Some chunks of black foot rattled loose and a little brick dust, but no little rabbit girl.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Bunt, who was tired of being copped up in the chimney. She wished she had not asked Tangle and Tangle to boost her up.

"Don't worry now," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll think of a way to get you down."

By this time Tangle and Tangle, as well as the rest of the forty-two little bunnies boys and girls, learning that something was wrong, had come into the bungalow from their play and were watching their father trying to get Bunt out of the chimney.

THE GUARANTEED OINTMENT UNEQUALLED FOR BOILS AND ULCERS

U.S. Republicans Predict Majority

New York, Nov. 2.—Before he left here yesterday for his home in California, the Republican National Committee handed Herbert Hoover its forecast for next Tuesday's presidential election.

The forecast gives Mr. Hoover a minimum of 289 votes in the Electoral College, or twenty-three more than necessary to win. It claims twenty-seven states for Hoover and concedes eleven Southern states to Governor Smith. Ten states are claimed by the Republicans as doubtful. The ten are: Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

But Governor Smith is equally confident he will carry the Democrats to victory. "Victory is in the air," he told a group of newspaper correspondents. "You were over in New Jersey last night, weren't you? There was something doing there, wasn't there? It's in the air and it means victory."

"Low bridge," shouted the bus conductor. "Everybody keep his seat and face to the front."

A gay little flapper up forward turned around, smiled sweetly and said, "My dear, you know that can't be done."

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

To-morrow's Horoscope

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3

This is read as rather a threatening day in planetary direction, for according to astrology adverse aspects are strong.

There is a promising sign for those who travel and it should be a fairly auspicious time to begin a sea voyage.

The stars seem to promise clarity of judgment and wise decisions while this way continues. Political questions should be less puzzling than under other directions of the stars.

Oil again is subject to a lucky sway which should bring profit to operators and holders of stock while it benefits consumers.

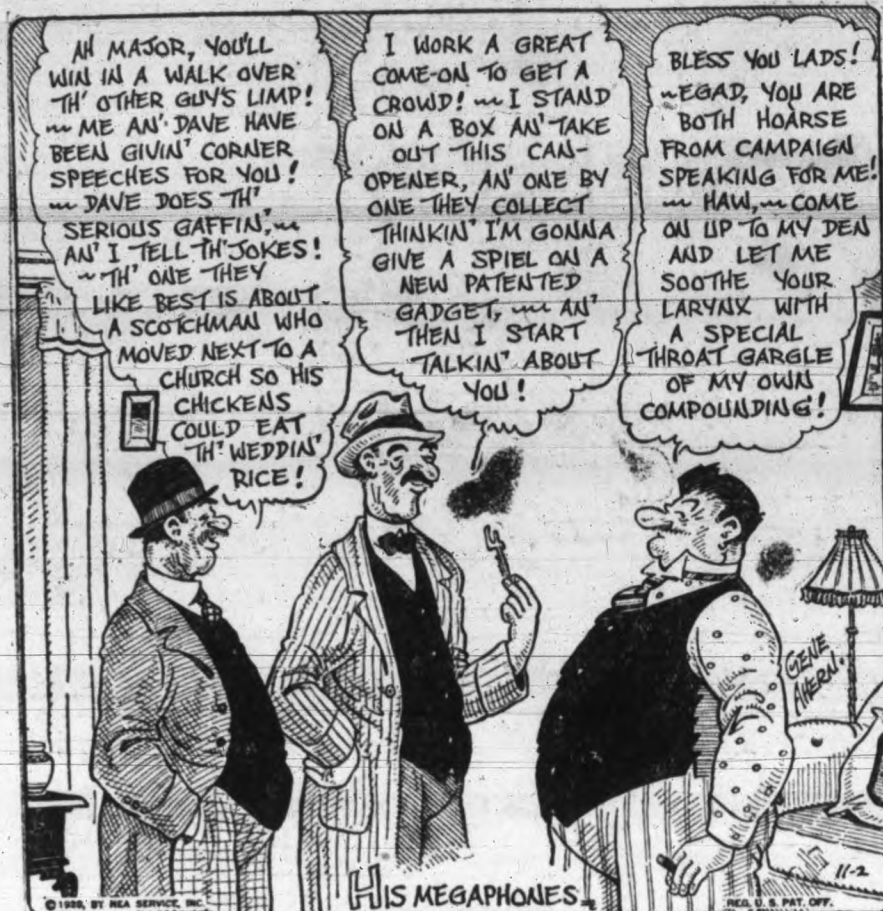

Women should prepare for a Winter in which many housekeeping difficulties must be met, for food and fuel will be costly, if the stars are rightly read.

Recurrence of general interest in food and diet will be evident in the coming Winter when physicians will become famous as dietitians.

Persons whose birthdate it is should develop their business and professional interests in the coming year when women

Doug to Do All His Talking First In New Film, "The Iron Mask"

Douglas Fairbanks... "look a person directly in the eye."

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 2.—"If you look a person directly in the eye while speaking to him, whatever you say will be convincing regardless of the quality of your voice. If you don't look at the person, the strongest statement will sound weak and inconsequential."

Douglas Fairbanks was the speaker, expounding the theory on which he has based the use of dialogue in his current production, "The Iron Mask." This film, by the way, is a sequel to "The Three Musketeers," one of the best and most successful pictures Doug has ever made.

"The public is demanding dialogue with its motion pictures these days, which gives us practically no choice as to whether or not we want to use it," declares Fairbanks. "However, I am going to try to please the public and at the same time keep the picture free of spoken lines."

"My plan is to have all of the talking done before the picture actually starts. I will come on the screen and invite the audience to come with me to France back in the seventeenth century when Louis XIII was reigning. Perhaps I also will have one or two others in the cast come on the screen and say a few words. I haven't decided."

"By using this plan the audience will have its dialogue and we can look directly at them while speaking, thus making our words convincing—a thing that is difficult to do when talking to one another in the picture."

Doug is in the same position as every other producer in Hollywood. He has a cast of stars who know exactly how to handle the situation and all are groping about half blindly in search of the right solution. They watch each new process far more closely than a hawk ever watched its prey before swooping down.

Pathe will soon have its first talking film ready for release. Pathe claims that the Phonophone, which it is using, is superior to either the Vitaphone or Movietone, the two basic methods now in use. Whether or not this rumor is true remains to be seen, but, nevertheless, the eyes of all Hollywood are turned on the Pathe studio. Little is known of the Phonophone except that it is the process of the Radio Corporation of America. There has been a general shake-up of the Pathe organization since Cecil B. De Mille left its ranks, and almost anything is expected of it now.

However, the talkies aren't hogging the whole spotlight around moviana these days. A few of the beams are being deflected toward the selection of organization since Cecil B. De Mille left its ranks, and almost anything is expected of it now.

But Hollywood already is beginning to speculate on who will be among the lucky thirteen. There are about a half dozen outstanding prospects, but only one of a score of others has a practically equal chance to be among the remaining seven.

SANITY TESTS ARE GIVEN PRISONER

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 2.—George Harsh, wealthy college youth, jointly indicted for murder with Richard Gallagher, eighteen-year-old member of a prominent Atlanta family, was given a three-hour examination by alienists yesterday. The first of a series of physical and mental examinations.

Harsh, nineteen-year-old son of the late George Harsh, Milwaukee, Wis., shoe manufacturer, was taken from his cell in Fulton County to a sanitarium, where Dr. Frank Eskridge and Dr. Conway Hunter, both specialists, subjected him to a thorough physical examination and X-rays of his head and spine were made.

Dr. Eskridge announced he had been asked by Harsh's family to make the examination.

While defence attorneys continued to decline to comment on the probable plea for Harsh when he and Gallagher are arraigned for trial, the examination by the alienists was pointed to as strengthening reports that insanity would be the basis of the fight to save Harsh, who police say has confessed to playing S. H. Meek, a grocery clerk, and Willard Smith, a pharmacist, during attempted hold-ups.

COLUMBIA SHOWING TOM MIX AND TONY IN WESTERN FILM

Tom Mix it at his best—in a role that gives him and his famed horse, Tony, every opportunity for the hard riding, dramatic action and spectacular stunts that have brought worldwide renown to that inseparable pair of film stars.

This is the offering at the Columbia Theatre, where the popular favorite is presented in "Son of the Golden West," an EPO special production that has been acclaimed throughout the country as the greatest Mix picture yet brought to the screen.

Tom is seen in the role of a pony express rider—one of that intrepid band who carried the mails on horseback through dangerous country, infested with hostile Indians and outlaws.

MARY ASTOR AND LAURA LA PLANTE AT THE PLAYHOUSE

William Austin is playing in support of Laura La Plante in "Silk Stockings," which is now at the Playhouse Theatre. He also supported her in "Her Night." The balance of the cast of "Silk Stockings" also included John Harron, Otis Harlan, Temple Lang, Marcela Daly, Ruth Cherrington, Heinie Conklin and Burr McIntosh. And on the same bill is Mary Astor in "Three Ring Marriage."

BILLIE REAMS IS POPULAR AS IRISH MAID AT COLISEUM

Miss Billie Reams, popular little player with the Lee Jaxon Company at the Coliseum Theatre, is exceptionally well cast in "The Sweetest Love," the stage offering which the stock company is presenting every evening this week. Miss Reams has the role of a red-haired Irish maid in a house where she is accustomed to act as one of the family. She has been with the company for thirty years and so has the run of the house. So when the master starts to call her names and tells her that she is useless there is a great deal of Irish brogue and clever sayings, which she scores a great hit with her audience, who fairly rock with laughter at her typically Irish manner. It seems hard to realize that the cheerful, although rather illiterate maid of this week's presentation is the same daily maiden who has appeared in other stage performances at the Coliseum.

"Half a Bride," starring Esther Balfour, is the screen offering at the Coliseum this week. It is a story of modern life and stars one of the prettiest actresses in the movies.

DOMINION STORY FILMED AT CAMP LEWIS, WASH.

A new fireman's uniform was originated by Richard Barthelmess, Hank Mann, Arthur Stone and other members of the "Patent Leather Kid," showing at the Dominion Theatre all this week.

Fire broke out in the barracks on location at Camp Lewis, Wash., during a ball given by army officers for the members of the company. Without pausing for the usual red herring and rubber boots, Barthelmess and his fellow players dashed to the fire attired in dinner clothes and dancing pumps, manned the hose and aided in carrying the personal effects of the soldiers to safety.

The barracks burned to the ground, being the tinder type of the style of 1918. The occupants fled to safety, scantily clad.

If firemen are seen galloping to fires attired in dinner clothes hereafter, blame it on the Camp Lewis version of "What the Well-Dressed Fireman Will Wear This Season."

NEW BLONDE STAR HAS LEADING ROLE HERE AT CAPITOL

Light and airy as a soap bubble, about as irritating and "sunny" one of the most perfect forms of diversification that has come this way in a long time, is "Show Girl," the new First National picture featuring Alice White, now at the Capitol Theatre.

This little girl with her blonde hair, her dainty figure and her pep—surely she is destined for great things in the show world, which includes the screen world. She has proved in this picture that she has the talent to create a role. For J. P. McEvoy's heroine was simply a character on paper until Alice invested her with life.

The direction by Alfred Santell is superb. The scenes on the stage during musical comedy rehearsals present many beautiful girls, big sets and plenty of action. Miss White tops everything with her effervescent personality.

NAVAL PICTURE NOW SHOWING AT VARIETY THEATRE

Can gobs shake a wicked leg when it comes to the dance hall? George O'Brien in Fox Films "Sharp Shooters" not only proves it to his dancing partner, Gwen Lee, but to every observer, as well.

Lots Moran is co-starred with O'Brien in this colorful story of the American navy in foreign ports. Others in the cast include William Demarest, Joseph Swickard, Tom Dugan and Noah Young. J. C. Blystone directed. The picture is at the Variety Theatre.

RADIO A LA AUTO

Stutz automobiles, at the option of the purchaser, may be equipped with radio sets. The set is built into the instrument board and is completely hidden except for the dial. The loudspeaker is above the windshield and the antenna is in the top.

They were discussing a man recently dead who had made a pot of money by shady methods.

"He wasn't exactly what you'd call dishonest," ventured one.

"True," agreed the other, "but he left much to be desired."

GREAT PROBLEM

Dealing with the problems of the farmers, he said that the marketing was one of the greatest problems that faced the tillers of the soil. The finding of an outlet from the farm for the products at as reasonable rates as possible was a necessity. He advised the quickest returns should be the hands of the producers at the start.

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, pressed upon the people of Canada to learn the words of "O Canada," so that they might sing it when occasion arose, and also the necessity of learning the words of "God Save the King," which were very often incorrectly sung, inasmuch as the words "our king" were used in the third line, instead of "the king," which was the correct version.

In speaking of the task that he had in solving educational problems in the country, he recalled that on his first arrival in Canada more than thirty years ago, he had started on this work, where inducements had to be held out to get the young Indian children to come to school and to dress according to modern ideas.

The meeting was presided over by S. H. Welch, the chairman of the ward association. During the evening Mrs. Tolmie was presented with a beautiful bouquet by Miss Bolton.

Refreshments were served by the ladies, and following that the floor was cleared and an enjoyable time spent in dancing, with music furnished by Miss Kernshaw and W. O. Foster.

Willie held his penny tightly while the Sunday school teacher told of the collection for the poor heathen. "Do they have ice cream where the heathen live?" he asked.

"Why—no," answered the teacher.

"Or movie shows? Or candy stores?"

"No, indeed!"

"Well, then," said Willie, pocketing his penny, "they ain't got any use for money, anyhow."
